Informant said that his analysis of the crime setup in Milwaukee is as follows:

Many years ago as far back as prohibition time there was a Mafia group in Milwaukee and elsewhere in the country which existed by blackmailing other Italian immigrants. This group in Milwaukee has since died out and is now replaced by the syndicate which consists not only of Italians but of other nationality groups as well and this group, using money that was obtained previously by the old timers in the illegal manner, is now engaged for the most part in various legitimate business endeavors plus principally gambling and shakedown.

Informant said that in his opinion the old time Mafia members in Milwaukee are now dormant and are used only occasionally for a front in some particular endeavor, principally a business matter. He said he does not feel that they have any say so in the operations of the syndicate nor do they derive any appreciable benefits from syndicate operations.

He said that among the old time members of the Mafia were included the father of the GUARDALABENE brothers, the father of JOE DENTICE, CARLO DIMAGGIO, SAM FERRARA, the father of the MANIACIS, FRANK BALISTRERI's father, and JOHN ALIOTO. However, the younger generation with the exception of FRANK BALISTRERI, who is described as "power crazy" and AUGIE MANIACI, who would like to have a finger in syndicate operations, have all divorced themselves from this background and have no part in syndicate operations.

With regard to the GUARDALABENE family as mentioned above, the father and grandfather of the GUARDALABENES were old time members of the Mafia group in Milwaukee. Informant is not sure of the identity of DOMINIC but believes him to be an older brother whose occupation is not known. The brothers that informant does know are VITO, the doctor, TONY, who is partner with MIKE AMATO in the funeral home, and ANGELO, who runs the Talk of the Town tavern. Informant said that so far as he knew none of these brothers were interested or engaged in any illegal activities or syndicate operations. CRIMINAL INTELLIGENCE PROGRAM

By letter dated 9/6/63, the Bureau inquired about the progress made in the investigation of thirteen persons alleged to be members of the hoodlum syndicate in Milwaukee. The files in these cases were opened as a result of a review of CIP during the last inspection. By letter to Bureau from Milwaukee dated 9/18/63, the Bureau is advised that investigation of these individuals was continuing and, in view of their relative inactivity, it was anticipated that pending inactive reports would be submitted to the Bureau in each case in the near future.

It is requested that Agents handling these cases prepare reports setting out background, etc., and that these reports be made pending inactive unless further investigation discloses current activity not presently known.

Dr. Guardalabene Services Saturday

Services for Dr. Vito Guardalabene, 59, of 6826 W. Wisconsin av., Wauwatosa, a prominent general practitioner, will be held Saturday.

Dr. Guardalabene died Tuesday in St. Michael's hospital of complications of a stroke he had suffered in June. He was currently being treated for a gall bladder ailment at the hospital.

He also suffered a stroke in 1961, but had recuperated and resumed his practice, with almost as many patients as before.

About 200 persons attended a testimonial dinner Dec. 27, 1961, after his recovery. Numerous public officials, labor leaders, doctors, and prominent citizens attended.

Dr. Vito Guardalabene

Dr. Guardalabene was a familiar figure in the households of most of his numerous patients over the years, according to his wife, Katherine.

Mrs. Guardalabene recalled that during the heavy snowstorm of 1946, she helped the doctor push open their front door which was half covered by a snowbank. Dr. Guardalabene walked six blocks in the height of the storm to deliver a baby in a patient's home.

"He was very proud of that child," Mrs. Guardalabene said. He delivered the child with only the instruments available in his kit, she said.

Dr. Guardalabene was a rotund man, at one time weighing more than 300 pounds.

When he made a house call, everyone had something on the stove and he was asked to participate. Dr. Herman Tuch-man, personal physician to Dr. Guardalabene, said.

Dr. Guardalabene also saw numerous vagrants who couldn't afford to pay for their treatment. He never was concerned about the fee, but rather with helping the patient in need. Tuchman, of 7100 N. Crossway rd., Fox Point, said.

He was on the staff at St. Michael for more than 25 years and was among the first doctors on staff when the new St. Michael was built at 2400 W. Villard av.

Dr. Guardalabene graduated from Lincoln high school and received his medical degree in 1935 from the University of Minnesota. After a few years of private practice in Milwaukee, he joined the army and worked in the surgeon general's office as a physician for the civilian conservation corps in Chicago.

He was married in 1941.

He was active as a physician during World War II serving in the China-Burma-India theater for 2½ years with the rank of lieutenant colonel. He returned to Milwaukee in 1945.

He was a member of the Madonna Del Lume society, the Milwaukee chapter of UNICO, the Alonzo Cudworth American Legion post No. 23, the Fraternal Order of Eagles No. 0137, and the Milwaukee Elks lodge No. 46.

Dr. Guardalabene also was a member of the Wisconsin Academy of General Practice, and was on the medical staff of both St. Michael and Deaconess hospitals.

Dr. Guardalabene served on a panel in the district court which held sanity examinations. He also served as a medical examiner for the selective service commission.

A boxing fan, he frequently served as the physician for local matches. In addition, he read extensively and was an opera enthusiast.

Besides his wife, Dr. Guardalabene is survived by his mother, Angela, of Milwaukee; three daughters, Mrs. Carla Widener of Barcelona, Spain, and Miss Yvonne and Miss Adrienne Guardalabene of Milwaukee; two brothers, Anthony and Angelo, both of Milwaukee; and four sisters, Mrs. Josephine Lewis, Mrs. Ann Lomedico, Mrs. Rose Lomedico, and Mrs. Santina Kuper, all of Milwaukee.

Services will be at 8:30 a.m. at the Guardalabene and Amato funeral home, 2001 N. Holton st. The funeral mass will be at 9 a.m. at St. Rita's Catholic church, 700 E. Pleasant st., followed by burial in Holy Cross cemetery.
